

Abstract of the Disclosure

Wiping products, such as wet wipes, tissues and towels, can be improved by incorporating a sufficient amount of a deliquescent material into the product. The deliquescent material is capable of maintaining a very high equilibrium amount of water in the product which can be advantageous in preventing wet wiping products from drying out 5 and improving the hand feel of dry wiping products.